Jean-Paul Sartre was a French existentialist philosopher, novelist, and dramatist. His 1946 philosophical masterpiece, Being and Nothingness, has been described as the Bible of existentialism. Sartre's ontology is explained in this work, where he defines two types of reality which lie beyond our conscious. His views on existentialism have had a profound impact on 20th-century philosophy and literature.