The Political Mind And The Political Environment: An Investigation Of Public Opinion And Political Consciousness

W. Lance Bennett

The central problem of political philosophy is how to deploy or limit public by the scope and limitations of mind, and the answers given by successive political of the contemporary situation, and although ancient political philosophies were philosophy and demand answers in terms of modern knowledge and opinion.